Guns, Butter Idea Blasted By Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Treasury official has told Congress the nation can't afford both guns and butter—to wage war in Vietnam while pressing ahead with domestic programs.

Undersecretary Joseph W. Barr's assessment before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee came Monday as President Johnson was tending a labor group: "We will do what must be done—we will do it both at home and we will do it wherever our brave men are called upon to stand."

Barr contended: "We are a great and powerful country and we can do a lot." But, he added, only "if we are willing to get down to the subsistence level like the Russians or someone else" can both war and domestic needs be fully met.

"I'll either get fired or impeached before I get out—and either one is not too bad, Barr told the Senate panel after declaring senators had an obligation to "vote for fiscal responsibility."

He said the administration anticipates a "back to back" deficit of $20 billion for the current fiscal year and the one beginning July 1 if Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge isn't enacted.

Following Barr's appraisal of the financial problems posed by the war and domestic needs, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said, "It takes the butter out of it when we reduce our standard of living." Barr agreed.

He said if the surtax is enacted, the current fiscal year's deficit will be $2 billion smaller than the $20 billion he forecast, while the tax hike combined with spending cuts could keep the fiscal 1969 deficit down to $8 billion.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., told the Senate the war will go on for another year as he argued for enactment of the surtax.

Smathers said "even if some dove, for lack of a better word, gets elected" president he won't be in office until January.

"The war won't even end until about a year from today, even if he's a miracle worker, which I doubt," Smathers said.

Burlesque Bumped Off

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Live burlesque is out in Toledo.

But a lawyer for Rose LaRose, a longtime stripper, says he'll sue to bring it back in.

Burlesque shows were bumped after an urban renewal program took over the site of the Town Hall Burlesque Theater on the edge of the business district.

Miss LaRose, the owner, sought to acquire a new site in the heart of the business district. Some businessmen objected.

City council settled the issue by adopting an ordinance forbidding burlesque inside the city. The ordinance becomes effective Monday.

Attorney Dan McCullough says he'll bring suit for Miss LaRose, but hasn't yet decided what the basis will be for legal action.

Commissioners Seek Clear Title to Memorial Hall

Pickaway County Commissioners initiated action Monday to establish a clear title of ownership to Memorial Hall.

A resolution passed by the Commissioners authorizes Robert Huffer, the county prosecutor, to file a "friendly suit" in common pleas court to establish clear title to the building and real estate.

State Legislation in 1886 authorized a Pickaway County Soldiers Monumental Assn. to construct a "memorial building." The Soldier's Monumental Assn. is still active although most of the cost of the maintenance and operation of the building is born by the county.

THE association charges the Pickaway County Library a small rental fee. Money derived from the rental is channeled back into the building in small repairs according to the commissioners.

Also encumbering the clear title to the building is a 99 year lease given the city of Circleville in May, 1890. This lease was to permit the city to operate a library in the building.

The present library is operated by the county and the suit is asking the court to terminate the lease since it is no longer being used by the city.

In other action Monday, the commissioners voted to buy a new photostat machine to replace the present one. The cost of the new machine is $9,975. Although Commissioner Charles Morris concurred with commissioners Wayne Hines and Lloyd Melvin in making the purchase, he voiced an objection to the action.

Morris stated that he believed the machine should be purchased through bidding procedures. Hines noted that since the machine is made only by one firm, bidding would be unnecessary.

A contract was signed by Commissioners Hines and Melvin authorizing Chillicothe architect Gene Schwarz to draw plans for a new children's home.

COMMISSIONERS and Schwarz were to view the Children's Home site today to determine the location of the new building.

Although he emphasized that he would cooperate with his fellow solons in construction of the new facility, Morris would not sign the contract.

He noted that he was opposed to the action.

Commissioners yesterday viewed the city jail at the request of city officials. The jail has been condemned according to Mayor Richard Gerhardt and he has asked the solons to consider housing the city's prisoners.

The request is being studied.

Viet Reds Putting All Into Battle

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — In efforts to seize objectives in northern South Vietnam, the North Vietnamese army "has committed, I think, about all the forces it can spare to force the issue," the U.S. commander in the region said today.

"He's not the type to try something half way," said Marine Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, chief of American forces in South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces.

Cushman said to force the issue, the enemy—starting with its lunar new year offensive—abandoned its protracted war.

"He (the North Vietnamese) was trying to keep pecking away for years until we got tired of it. We were winning that war slowly, we were making it a hamlet at a time. Now he is going all out," Cushman said.

He added that the enemy was building up his forces to conventional war level as early as a year ago in the northern region.

Fishing Festivals Planned in State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio set out today to make itself "the family-fishing state in the nation."

To do it, the Department of Natural Resources has announced 146 fishing festivals, including 42 for trout, will be held in the state during the year.

Gov. James A. Rhodes said streams and lakes would be stocked with more fish this year than the record planting a year ago.

GOP Hunt for Alternative To Nixon Finds No Takers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fledgling National Coalition for a Republican Alternative hopes to bring to the surface one of what its top organizer calls an "invisible quartet" of potential presidential candidates.

The new organization of moderate Republicans, whipped together in 48 hours over last weekend, has pushed its contacts into 25 states. But it is operating without a candidate.

And it is under express orders from its chief sponsor, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., not to get itself tagged as a "anti" movement against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

However, Nixon's name was not among those listed by Duff

Reed, Morton's aid and chief organizer, as making up the "invisible quartet."

Reed said in an interview the group hopes to wind up with a candidate in either Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois or Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon—not necessarily in that order.

All these are noncandidates at this point, although Percy is in line to become Illinois' favorite son.

Poles Purge Intellectuals

Take Advantage Of Student Unrest

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Communist regime fired seven intellectuals Monday in the biggest stroke of a purge following recent student demonstrations and street rioting.

The government ousted six teachers at Warsaw University on charges of implanting in their students political views contrary to the state's, the official news agency PAP reported.

There was no explanation for the ouster of the seventh intellectual, but he has been under fire for some time because of unorthodox Marxist views.

The regime now has ousted 12 persons, most of them Jews, since disturbances began on March 8, growing out of student unrest over the closing of a play which had some lines construed by censors as anti-Soviet.

The students have charged police brutality, accused the official press of lying and demanding more freedom. No new demonstrations have been reported since three Warsaw sit-ins ended Saturday.

The latest move was further evidence of the government's intention to root out so-called "reactionary elements, Zionists and demagogues" whom it accuses of starting the trouble.

Some Western observers feel, however, that the student unrest has given the party leadership an opportunity to strike back against opponents of its policy.

Ohio Per-Pupil Expenditures Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Average per-pupil expenditure for Ohio's elementary and secondary schools grew by $65.67 for the 1966-67 school year, or from an average of $429.10 to $504.66, according to a State Department of Education survey reported today.

The figures are the latest available since no computations have been made on the 1967-68 school year.

The survey showed a record increase in costs per pupil from the previous school year, largely due to new programs under provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The safe was in a house which she bought, and the former safe crackers were called when estimates from professionals were too high. Inside the safe was only a note: "The protection you need."

Ex-Army Officer Quits Viet Work

SAIGON (AP) — A retired U.S. Army officer who spent more than four years in military and civilian posts in South Vietnam says he is quitting because, despite recent enemy successes, the United States is following "the same old policies."

Sidney J. Roche, a retired lieutenant colonel, said in a statement that he had hoped for "some change in policies" after the success of the Viet Cong Tet offensive.

"However," he said, "it appears that we are going to follow the same old road and pursue the same policies."

While in the Army, Roche was on the staff of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam. Since leaving the service, he has been with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

He was a field coordinator for the New Life (hamlet) Development program.

In his letter of resignation, Roche listed what he said were the primary reasons U.S. efforts to end the war are being frustrated.

Among other factors, he blamed corruption in the South Vietnamese government, faulty U.S. military tactics, growing strength of the Communist party apparatus in South Vietnam, failure of the pacification program, failure of basic U.S. aid programs to meet the needs of Vietnam and failure to give adequate aid to 1.4 million South Vietnamese refugees.

"After more than four years involvement in Vietnam affairs," Roche said, "I am finally throwing in the towel."

There was no way to confirm the report.

Fusui is a small city on the main rail and road route between the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi and the Kwangsi provincial capital of Nanning.

"Every day," the Long Kong construction worker said, "several trains go through Fusui loaded with weapons and supplies for the North Vietnamese army."

"They come back with wounded North Vietnamese. Every hospital in Kwangsi Province is filled with wounded North Vietnamese."

"At first, the people (of Kwangsi) seemed to approve it as part of China's policy of helping North Vietnam in the war against America."

"But then the hospitals started turning back Chinese residents of their own areas, there was opposition and bitterness and eventually attacks against hospital authorities and staff."

Sharp Fight Leaves 135 Enemy Dead

SAIGON (AP) — About 1,000 North Vietnamese troops attacked a U.S. artillery base in the central highlands in human wave assaults today and overran one gun position in the heaviest fighting there in four months.

The North Vietnamese, armed with flame throwers and rocket-propelled grenades, were driven back by the 500 U.S. defenders after four hours of battle, the U.S. Command said.

A spokesman said 135 North Vietnamese troops and 19 Americans were killed and 51 Americans wounded.

Near Saigon, allied forces pushed through rice paddies and hedgerows pursuing a battered Viet Cong force that broke off a sharp 24-hour battle shortly before dawn. The Viet Cong death toll was put at 284.

The U.S. Command said 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 71 wounded in the fighting. South Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

The heavy fighting near Saigon was touched off before dawn Monday when the Viet Cong attacked two South Vietnamese outposts 28 miles northwest of the capital and infiltrated the marketplace of a district town called Trang Bang and a nearby hamlet. One outpost protecting the district town was overrun. The second held.

The Viet Cong also tried to block allied relief forces from two sides, attacking U.S. armored columns to the northwest and the northeast en route to reinforce the beleaguered town and its outposts.

Trang Bang is the biggest district town between Saigon and the Cambodian border to the west. It sits along Route 1, the national highway leading from Saigon to the border and is a commercial center for traffic to Cambodia.

The fighting was the biggest single action of the Quyet Thang—Resolved to Win—offensive launched 16 days ago. The Viet Cong toll raised to 2,008 the total number of enemy troops reported killed.

U.S. losses for the same period were put at 73 dead and 609 wounded, and South Vietnamese casualties at 89 dead and 231 wounded.

Price of Gold Reaches $40.38 On Paris Mart

PARIS (AP) — Gold prices vaulted today on the Paris free market in the face of stepped up demand.

Fine gold sold for the equivalent of $40.38 an ounce, an increase of 98 cents over Monday and $5.38 above the Washington-fixed ceiling price.

After four days of steady increase, the price for the one kilogram — 2.2-pound — ingot reached $1,282, the highest mark since the record $1,400 figure March 15, the first day of the Paris free market.

Ten and a quarter tons of fine gold exchanged hands, as well as 30,000 Napoleon coins—both substantially up from Monday.

Failure to reach a firm agreement in Brussels monetary talks Monday and continued uncertainty about results of the Stockholm group of 10 conference Thursday may have contributed to the lively activity on the Paris market.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The telephone industry faces a threatened strike April 12 that could make it difficult for would-be customers to get new phones installed in 48 of the 50 states.

Democratic Campaign Trail Trod by LBJ, RFK, McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won promises of solid labor support for his reelection and left little doubt he intends to seek another term.

"We do intend to stand here as long as we can stand here," he said Monday night, "and fight for what is right."

Johnson dropped the hint on his political plans during an unannounced visit to the second annual Farm Policy and Rural Life conference in a speech filled with homespun humor.

He told the farmers they had mastered the hardest skill of all: "You know how to make hay in Washington."

In other political developments:

—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a crowd of more than 15,000 at Madison, Wis., his Democratic presidential candidacy is no longer simply a protest against President Johnson's policies.

"We are seeking the presidency of the United States," McCarthy said and hundreds stood and cheered.

—Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon mapped strategy with staff members and friends in New York and plans to continue his Wisconsin primary campaign Wednesday. The primary vote comes a week from today.

—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy carried his Democratic presidential campaign into the Pacific Northwest after a stop in Los Angeles' Watts area where he was cheered by thousands of Negroes.

Johnson defended his "Great Society" programs at the labor

convention and the farm program he sent to Congress last month at the farm conference.

"We did make progress," Johnson told the labor group, in helping millions of Americans rise from poverty, providing medical care for the elderly and bringing better jobs at higher pay for workers.

"These are the mighty foundations that we have put into place," he said, "and we are not torn down in a partisan, political election year."

"I'm not saying you never had it so good," the President said, "but that is a fact, isn't it?"

Elsewhere on the political scene:

—California Gov. Ronald Reagan said he doubts Nixon can lock up the GOP presidential nomination before the national convention because many Republicans still are concerned about Nixon's electability.

—An effort in Washington, D.C., to pool Kennedy and McCarthy forces into a common anti-Johnson front has been disavowed by McCarthy. He said the coalition could be misconstrued as an "arrangement" for Kennedy's campaign.

—McCarthy's new California campaign manager, Sanford A. (Sandy) Weiner, said the Minnesota campaign in the state will be geared to charges of "bully and strongarm" tactics by Kennedy forces.

—Florida State GOP Chairman William Murfin pulled out of the state's convention delegation, charging it is pledged to Gov. Claude Kirk as a presidential candidate, not just a favorite son.

Democratic Campaign Trail Trod by LBJ, RFK, McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won promises of solid labor support for his reelection and left little doubt he intends to seek another term.

"We do intend to stand here as long as we can stand here," he said Monday night, "and fight for what is right."

Johnson dropped the hint on his political plans during an unannounced visit to the second annual Farm Policy and Rural Life conference in a speech filled with homespun humor.

He told the farmers they had mastered the hardest skill of all: "You know how to make hay in Washington."

In other political developments:

—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a crowd of more than 15,000 at Madison, Wis., his Democratic presidential candidacy is no longer simply a protest against President Johnson's policies.

"We are seeking the presidency of the United States," McCarthy said and hundreds stood and cheered.

—Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon mapped strategy with staff members and friends in New York and plans to continue his Wisconsin primary campaign Wednesday. The primary vote comes a week from today.

—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy carried his Democratic presidential campaign into the Pacific Northwest after a stop in Los Angeles' Watts area where he was cheered by thousands of Negroes.

Johnson defended his "Great Society" programs at the labor

convention and the farm program he sent to Congress last month at the farm conference.

"We did make progress," Johnson told the labor group, in helping millions of Americans rise from poverty, providing medical care for the elderly and bringing better jobs at higher pay for workers.

"These are the mighty foundations that we have put into place," he said, "and we are not torn down in a partisan, political election year."

"I'm not saying you never had it so good," the President said, "but that is a fact, isn't it?"

Elsewhere on the political scene:

—California Gov. Ronald Reagan said he doubts Nixon can lock up the GOP presidential nomination before the national convention because many Republicans still are concerned about Nixon's electability.

—An effort in Washington, D.C., to pool Kennedy and McCarthy forces into a common anti-Johnson front has been disavowed by McCarthy. He said the coalition could be mis-

construed as an "arrangement" for Kennedy's campaign.

—McCarthy's new California campaign manager, Sanford A. (Sandy) Weiner, said the Minnesota campaign in the state will be geared to charges of "bully and strongarm" tactics by Kennedy forces.

—Florida State GOP Chairman William Murfin pulled out of the state's convention delegation, charging it is pledged to Gov. Claude Kirk as a presidential candidate, not just a favorite son.

—New York City Mayor Lindsay predicted Rockefeller will be the GOP presidential nominee despite his refusal to campaign. Said Lindsay: "I think there's an answer to the Republican dilemma, and I'm not going to give up on it, and that's Nelson Rockefeller."

—But Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said Rockefeller is unlikely to be drafted and predicted the nomination will go to Nixon. "I don't see anybody who can beat him unless Gov. Reagan becomes an active candidate," Murphy said, "and I don't think he will."

Chamber Week

Freedom's Challenge

By KATHY MACKLIN

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a four-part series of prize-winning speeches in the VFW Voice of Democracy Contest. Texts of the winning entries of area high school students are being used in conjunction with Chamber of Commerce Week now being observed. Theme of the week-long observance is "Accent on Freedom."

By KATHY MACKLIN

Why is freedom a challenge? Why should we fight to gain freedom and why must we work to preserve it?

KATHY MACKLIN

Freedom is a small word, but it represents the tremendous cause for which many men have fought and died. Freedom is being allowed to do as one's heart directs with due respect to the rights of others; but along with the wonderful benefits of freedom comes that which is so completely essential to preserving freedom: personal responsibility.

Each person — man, woman, and child — must always keep one eye firmly glued to his freedom. No one must ever allow himself to forget his responsibilities and start accepting his liberty as a well-deserved gift. No one person can work hard enough to give this gift to a nation. Everyone in that nation must support his own freedom and must help protect the freedom of his fellow men.

Why should it matter to a man that he cannot choose his own leaders; cannot grow crops for his own benefit; cannot educate his children; cannot express publicly what he feels to be right? These liberties do not matter to anyone who would give up his freedom, but to a man who sincerely wishes freedom for himself and his family, these liberties represent his reason for living and for fighting to live.

FREEDOM challenges each of us to pick up his own special load and carry it toward the highest human goal — that of gaining and preserving freedom for all mankind.

Still, how does one meet the challenge of freedom? Every man has his own personal responsibilities, but there are certain parts of our freedom which require the combined support of all free men.

To gain the leadership so necessary to a free people, everyone must exercise his sacred privilege of voting. If everyone feels that he is insignificant and that his vote will make no difference, a small minority will be allowed to decide the fate of masses.

The right to vote and the many other rights allowed to a free people cost nothing in dollars and cents, but every person is asked to pay for his freedom by meeting the demands which must be made to keep order in a civilized society.

No freedom can survive where there is no responsibility, but this responsibility appears so small when it is contrasted to the beautiful and fruitful world which opens itself to a free people.

When every free person does his small part to preserve his independence; when every man cares for his fellow man — then, and only then, will all men be united in a common effort to meet freedom's challenge!

Human Tissue Freezing Seen Possible Soon

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The controversial "miracle drug" DMSO is proving effective against one of the major obstacles to long-term freezing of living tissue, a research physician says.

Successful freezing revival of tissue is one of the methods being explored for setting up storage banks of hearts and other organs for transplantation.

Dr. Robert E. Stowell, a pathologist at the University of California at Davis, told a symposium of science writers Monday that DMSO, dimethylsulfoxide, prevents the formation of ice crystals that dehydrate and thus kill cells during the freezing process.

DMSO, derived from wood pulp, is a highly penetrative chemical which has been hailed as a "miracle" pain killer. It is controversial because it is not as effective in some people as in others.

In the air war, the U.S. Command announced that swinging F111s, the newest American warplanes, flew their first combat mission Monday. The radar-guided, supersonic jets flew from Ta Khu, Thailand, in a night strike on a truck park and storage area northwest of Dong Hoi in southern North Vietnam.

Pilots of the flight, believed to have been made up of four planes, said their bombs were on target, although no damage assessment was available immediately. No challenge to the F111s by North Vietnamese MIG fighters or antiaircraft missiles was reported.

The controversial plane, known as the TFX during its hotly disputed development stages, travels faster than twice the speed of sound and can carry a bigger payload than any U.S. plane except the eight-engine B52.

Human Tissue Freezing Seen Possible Soon

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The controversial "miracle drug" DMSO is proving effective against one of the major obstacles to long-term freezing of living tissue, a research physician says.

Successful freezing revival of tissue is one of the methods being explored for setting up storage banks of hearts and other organs for transplantation.

Dr. Robert E. Stowell, a pathologist at the University of California at Davis, told a symposium of science writers Monday that DMSO, dimethylsulfoxide, prevents the formation of ice crystals that dehydrate and thus kill cells during the freezing process.

DMSO, derived from wood pulp, is a highly penetrative chemical which has been hailed as a "miracle" pain killer. It is controversial because it is not as effective in some people as in others.

Sharp Fight

South Vietnamese troops is the biggest allied operation of the war. It is taking place in five provinces around Saigon with the aim of easing enemy pressure on the capital and wresting the initiative from the Viet Cong.

In the air war, the U.S. Command announced that swinging F111s, the newest American warplanes, flew their first combat mission Monday. The radar-guided, supersonic jets flew from Ta Khu, Thailand, in a night strike on a truck park and storage area northwest of Dong Hoi in southern North Vietnam.

Pilots of the flight, believed to have been made up of four planes, said their bombs were on target, although no damage assessment was available immediately. No challenge to the F111s by North Vietnamese MIG fighters or antiaircraft missiles was reported.

The controversial plane, known as the TFX during its hotly disputed development stages, travels faster than twice the speed of sound and can carry a bigger payload than any U.S. plane except the eight-engine B52.

Rescue 3 Youths from Ice Cliff

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H. (AP) — The last of three youths were reported rescued today from an ice cliff on Mt. Washington where two had been stranded overnight in zero temperatures and 100 miles an hour winds.

The U.S. Forest Service said the trio were caught in a snow avalanche while climbing the mountain Sunday.

The three are Jeff Damp, 20, of North Conway; Tom Davis, 20, of Exeter, and Don Stahlman, 20, reportedly of North Conway.

Damp reportedly was suffering from frostbitten feet and hands and a slight wound.

The forest service said Davis was in good shape but may have rib fractures. He was carried down the slope on a stretcher.

Damp and Davis became stranded in Huntington ravine Sunday afternoon following a series of three snow avalanches, officials said. Stahlman was swept down by one avalanche but was saved from serious injury because he was tied to the other two youths.

Stahlman suffered minor concussions but climbed down to the Appalachian Mountain Club in Pinkham Notch. Two specialists in ice climbing began the long climb to rescue Davis and Damp.

Ed Nestor, George Smith and Charles Porter, the rescue party, got Davis off the cliff about 2:15 a.m. and then stayed with Davis until daylight to bring him down from the perilous peak.

honor of Glenn Weiler on his 25th year of Purina service.

Robert Norpoth, plant controller, presented Weiler with shares of Purina Stock in honor of the occasion. Gifts and good wishes from all of the employees were also presented.

Weiler commenced his career on March 23, 1943 in the mill office counting floor stock and has progressed over the years to this present position in stock control.

Glenn and his wife, Zora, take great pride in their daughter Carol, (Mrs. John Lang) who is a former "Miss Ohio" and participant in the "Miss America Pageant" at Atlantic City.

Weiler's hobbies are horse-shoe pitching and woodworking. He also has the distinction of being the only person at the plant that ever played an instrument in the Ohio State University Marching Band.

Glenn and his wife, Zora, reside at 320 Northridge Road.

Cincinnati Schools Trim Expenditures

CINCINNATI (AP)—The City Board of Education, approving a resolution which would cut spending for the 1968 school year by $1.2 million, said Monday it would support a tax increase if proposed by residents. Officials said the city would stay within the $50.9 million appropriations by reducing the teacher total in the system, having larger classes and eliminating several administrative posts.

Mindszenty Wants To Leave Hungary

VIENNA (AP) — An authoritative source said today that Hungary's Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty has changed his mind about maintaining his self-imposed exile in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest and now wants to go to Rome.

But the informant said Hungarian authorities, who earlier displayed "great interest" in having the Roman Catholic prelate leave, have cooled toward that idea, making an early solution of the cardinal's case unlikely.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a Democratic presidential hopeful, will speak to some 300 newspapermen June 18th at the 35th convention of the American Newspaper Guild here.

Thais Becoming Outspoken In Opinions of Americans

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)

Thailand's National Research Council has been commissioned to carry out a survey to find out what Thais think of Americans. The government-sponsored survey follows several recent outbursts of anti-Americanism, brought about by the buildup of American troops in Thailand. They now number some 45,000.

Thais, normally an urbane, polite people who rarely say what they think, have begun to be more outspoken about the Americans.

The first thing that shocks them is that many Thai girls turn to prostitution as a way of earning an easy living from the free-spending Americans.

In the town of Takli it is estimated there are 1,000 prostitutes registered with an American doctor and probably 1,000 more who are not registered cluding the towns that have airbases used to bomb North Vietnam and Laos, may run to 70,000.

The troops and the girls have led to the problem of illegitimate children fathered by American servicemen. This is not a major social problem, but the Thais have expressed concern about the welfare of the GI babies and their mothers.

Thais are both fascinated and repulsed by Americans.

They envy them their post-exchange, tax-free cars and modern household gadgets which most Thais will never be able to afford. This leads to wholesale thieving from American homes in Bangkok.

Liquor and cigarettes brought in for tax-free sales to U.S. personnel are stolen in huge quantities.

Thais are repulsed by Americans kissing and cuddling girls in public, and newspapers frequently condemn the practice.

Second Thought

Time for a second thought ought to be the right of every victim of a fast-talking door-to-door salesman.

That is the motivation behind a bill sponsored by Sen. Magnuson of Washington, which would give a household a chance to reconsider a purchase contract, and cancel it if he wished.

The first defense, of course, is for the customer to sign nothing under pressure, and until he knows fully what he is doing.

But an opportunity to reconsider within a reasonable time would be a logical secondary defense — reasonable in such cases being three days, as Federal Trade Commission Chairman Dixon suggested.

No legislation can eliminate all sharp practices, but a law such as this could slow up many sharpies.

What Unity?

That "unity" meeting of 66 communist parties in Budapest turned out to be a victory for Moscow only in that it was held at all.

Conspicuous by their absence were comrades from Cuba, Albania, Yugoslavia, Indonesia, Burma, Thailand, Malaysia, North Korea, North Vietnam (despite all those Soviet arms), Sweden, The Netherlands, Norway, Japan and, of course, Red China.

Romania sent a delegation mostly, it seems, to dissent. Midway through the speeches, the Romanians walked out in protest against criticism of Red China and Soviet plans for a full-dress communist convention next winter.

While the big meeting was scheduled, the Soviet Union agreed to drop its proposal for a restatement of communist principles based on allegiance to a central headquarters, namely Moscow. Instead, the agenda will rely on the old standby of "condemning imperialist forces."

Once again the Budapest conference showed that Moscow's influence among their communist countries rises or falls in direct proportion to the presence or proximity of Soviet troops. Of the Balkan nations, Bulgaria continues to cooperate, while Albania, Romania and Yugoslavia have developed a keen aptitude for playing off East against West or Russia against Red China.

Nationalism continues to be the strongest of political impulses.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THIS STORY concerns a very, very rich man who built his own private nine-hole golf course. His wife played a round with a hired pro one morning recently and persuaded her husband to follow her in his electric golf cart. With him rode a professional gambler, who inveigled his host into a coin-matching game for high stakes while they bumped over the course, pausing every time the wife took a swing at her ball.

On the sixth hole the wife lost her ball in the rough.

By the time she found it, her husband had lost his golf course.

A hungry stranger once wangled a table at Toots Shor's exclusive saloon and ordered four cocktails, a bowl of soup, two thick slabs of roast beef, a baked potato, three bottles of beer, and two slices of apple pie a la mode. Toots tapped him lightly on the shoulder and asked, "What time are you being electrocuted?"

"The most impartial man I ever met," Bugs Baer would have you know, "was Charles Evans Hughes. In fact, he was so impartial that he even parted his beard down the middle."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It is a pleasant thought to think that the loveliness of spring will soon replace the rigors of winter. Indoor activity will be changed to outdoor work on the lawn and in the garden. The pleasantness of this variation must not be spoiled by any of the hazards of the use of pesticides. These are now being used with such frequency that safety measures must be introduced to avoid potential dangers.

A most important basic rule of safety is to read and reread the label on the can before using its contents. It is imperative that these directions be followed exactly.

The second rule of safety is to keep all pesticides away from the curious groping hands and mouths of children. Only by rigid adherence to these rules can the valuable functions of these chemicals be safely attained without any danger to the lives of children.

Adults, too, must not become careless with a pesticide because of the frequency with which it is used. Frequent use too often leads to such carelessness.

Keep the pesticide in its original container. Never transfer it from one to another without being sure to label it immediately. Certainly never put these chemicals in unsealed milk bottles or pop bottles. Children who cannot read have a right to believe that they "still" contain good-tasting beverages.

Keep pesticides, chemicals and other toxic substances under lock and key and far removed from any food that might absorb any of its potential ingredients.

When using any of them avoid inhaling the vapors, fumes and dust by keeping the nose covered and by being sure that there is a cross draft to decrease the concentration in the air.

Many of these chemicals are toxic and are absorbed through the skin. Care should be taken that the skin and the hands are frequently washed after use.

Avoid smoking while spraying. Wear protective clothing. Gloves, aprons, goggles and masks are an excellent investment in safety. Clothing can become impregnated with toxic chemicals and can keep residual material on it for a long time. Wash such contaminated clothing before using it again.

Food plants and crops must be given only the proper amount of pesticide so that no harmful quantities still remain on the fruits when they are eaten. Animals, too, must be protected in their feeding areas from grasses and food that may have been contaminated with insecticides.

If pesticides are accidentally swallowed the victim should be taken to a hospital immediately if his own doctor is not available. Almost every large city in America has a poison control center.

By telephone they can almost always make specific recommendations that may be lifesaving. It is imperative that the container be kept so that the ingredients can be relayed to the doctor or to the poison center for their advice.

Many substances are inflammable. I emphasize the word deliberately to point out that it means "flammable" and not "non-flammable." Manufacturers are now substituting the word flammable in all cases where the chemicals are known to have a threat of fire.

All equipment for spraying should be of the best calibre to avoid leakage from the valves onto the hands and body of the user.

Many outdoor workers who are accustomed to the use of pesticides know their values and their dangers. It is the occasional user who sacrifices safety because he is in a hurry.

The value of these chemicals is great if they do not threaten the health and lives of those who use them.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A former co-owner of a plush Cincinnati restaurant was returned to Seattle, Wash., Monday where he is under a larceny conviction.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Louis J. Schneider approved extradition against George S. Nasr, taken into custody by the FBI last Feb. 22 in New York on a charge of unlawful flight.

Authorities said Nasr was convicted in Seattle in 1965 and was subject to 15 years imprisonment — but he never appeared for sentencing or to post an appeal bond. Instead, he came to Cincinnati and operated Captain Daid's restaurant in Mount Adams.

The World Today

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Johnson continues to refrain from detailed comment on the report of his riot commission, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is emerging as the prime administrator critic of the group's recommendations.

Johnson, under heavy attack from political opponents such as Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy for not speaking out in favor of the commission's proposals, had another chance at a news conference last Friday. As before, he remained largely noncommittal.

Noting that he thought it was "a very good commission," the President told reporters that "a good many of the things they recommended we had already made decisions on."

"We don't agree with everything in this report and they don't agree with everything we are doing," Johnson said, adding that "there is a general 'simpativo' of views" between his Cabinet and the commission.

But Humphrey said the report's conclusion that "our nation is moving toward two societies, one white, one black, is 'open to some challenge.' He broadened his attack in a speech Sunday night.

He called for "historical perspective" on what has already been accomplished, thus reflecting the evident administration opinion that the report should have praised its efforts in the antipoverty, urban and education fields.

"We are not just starting out," Humphrey said, noting that "in the 1960s we have experienced the greatest and most hopeful breakthroughs in race relations in the past 100 years" both through government action and "the dramatic, nonviolent demonstrations for racial and economic justice."

The vice president charged that in saying "white society condones" the segregation and poverty of the Negro ghettos, the commission "comes dangerously close to a doctrine of group guilt."

But the main thrust of Humphrey's criticism was directed against the commission's basic conclusion, the movement toward two societies "one black, one white—separate and unequal."

"This is only part of the picture, and I do not believe it is the main part," Humphrey said, calling separatism "a minority movement, led by black and white extremists who can take advantage of current frustrations but do not speak for the bulk of Americans: black and white."

But in assailing "white racism" and the way it contributed to the riots, the commission made clear it was thinking of something much broader than the work of white and black extremists.

It cited "pervasive discrimination and segregation in employment, education and housing," "black in-migration and white exodus" which is leaving central cities black, surrounded by white suburbs, and the impact of poverty and segregation in destroying opportunity and enforcing failure in the black ghettos.

Further than individual "white racists," the city riots were aimed at "local symbols of white American society, authority and property in Negro neighborhoods," it said.

Humphrey's attention to individual extremists in effect confirms the commission's conclusion that "white Americans have never fully understood" the deep implications of white society's role in creating, maintaining and condoning the racial ghetto.

Which Way for Demos?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

From time to time in the history of the republic a great political party has been broken up only to reform again under another name. But, curiously, the disappearing act has always been staged by the more conservative of the two dominant parties of any given age. The Federalist Party vanished and re-emerged as the Whig Party. The Whigs, in turn, died before being reborn as Republicans.

During the long Rooseveltian period, and for a few months after Lyndon Johnson's tremendous victory over Barry Goldwater, there were surmises that the Republicans might go the way of the Whigs. Only the Democratic Party seemed eternal; in tracing its lineage back to Thomas Jefferson, it emphasized its origins in the differences of opinion that wracked George Washington's first government.

In 1968, however, it is the more liberal — or radical, if you will — of our two big parties that could be headed for a disastrous split and possible dissolution. Eugene McCarthy and Bobby Kennedy threaten to be the precipitating agents. In breaking with an incumbent President they have let the genie out of the bottle. The gentlemanly McCarthy may have been entirely sincere when, at the time of his original announcement, he indicated that he would support the winning ticket if he failed to put his own candidacy over. But his followers are not devoted "party" people; indeed, his crusade has been spearheaded by the young who, up to the very day on which he announced his availability, pride themselves as having passed beyond the normal give-and-take of the political process. They won't dutifully support a Johnson — Humphrey ticket if that is what is presented at Chicago this summer.

As for Bobby Kennedy, how can he go back if LBJ is the eventual winner in the party struggle? In tacitly threatening to take a walk, or even to support a liberal Republican, he has uttered fateful words. His own pride, choked down during three years of lip-service to the Johnson party apparatus, has been released into the action of making a drive to displace the current Democratic hierarchy. Pride may go before a fall, but pride, in a person of the Bobby Kennedy temperament, can hardly be choked back into restraining harness for a second time.

No, the fountains of the deep have been broken up inside the Democratic Party. It remains to be seen how the Republicans will react to this good fortune. Without getting personal, at least just yet, the Republicans ought to ponder the meaning of the fact that it is the more radical party that is fissuring this time. When the Federalists and the Whigs committed hari-kiri, the great vital center of the nation was in the movement away from conservatism as interpreted as special privilege. But in 1968 the vital center is moving back to an emphasis on traditional values, whether you call them conservative or moderately liberal, or libertarian.

The researches of Stanton Evans, the Indianapolis editor, into political demography prove this point conclusively. Instead of disappearing after the Goldwater disaster, the vital center of the Republican Party has, in even in the midst of the talk about pragmatism, tended to elect more conservative figures. Of the twenty-six Republican governors, at least thirteen are more or less on the conservative side, which is one reason why the governors have never been able to function as a unit in lining up behind a Presidential candidate. The big Reagan victory in California was achieved by catering to young married people with a real belief in the "creative federalism" that would leave governing power in the hands of the states. Republican strength has been growing faster in the South and in the West, and this is doubly significant because the population trends in this country have been transforming states such as Florida, Texas, and California into behemoths to compete with New York and Pennsylvania.

George Romney's candidacy collapsed because it was not mainstream Republicanism. It is too early to say that the Nelson Rockefeller candidacy will go the way of Romney's, for Rocky has yet to say what he thinks. It is what he chooses to say in Oregon, rather than the votes he can pile up in a distinctly non-typical western state, that will tell the Rockefeller story in the public opinion polls, and in the backrooms at the Miami Beach convention.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't only the weather that is perplexing this spring, although it is difficult to imagine a more spiteful mockery than a foot of snow on the South's new crops and warm rains on the northern ski slopes.

In the financial world there are many situations that just don't add up or that seem upside down or reversed or inexplicable or confusing. There are answers; but more might be learned from pondering the questions instead.

Why—are people storing more than 7 per cent of their take-home pay in the bank when inflation is eating away at it like moths in a clothes closet? And, incidentally, who are these people? Your neighbors?

—does the Johnson administration fall time after time to come up with correct budget estimates for spending in Vietnam?

—is the entire world, East and West, upset or concerned with the availability of a yellow metal dug from the ground that nobody intends to do anything with but rebury in a vault or in the ground?

—after ignoring food manufacturing and retailing stocks for so long, are so many analysts now reversing themselves and recommending selective purchases, even though the fundamentals don't seem to have changed a lot?

—has Britain, in the midst of an austerity program to encourage an inflow of investments, also decided on a show of confidence by lowering the bank rate to 7.5 per cent from 8 per cent, thus making British investments less attractive?

—did American monetary managers apparently make a firm promise at the recent conference of world bankers in Washington to take action against the imbalance of foreign payments when they have had so little control over the situation in the past?

—if the growth of insurance companies, mutual funds and pension funds is creating such an enormous demand for stocks —some analysts even speak of a potential shortage—aren't the prices of stocks stronger than they are?

—did American automakers, who supposedly have their ears attuned to consumer wants, permit foreign compact cars to take such a large portion of the U.S. car market without offering competition?

—with President Johnson keeping consumer interests constantly in mind—even appointing the government's first consumer counsel, Merle M. McCurdy—are consumers described as fretful and critical?

—did Wall Street, whose analysts always look for growth prospects in other businesses, fail to recognize or plan for the great growth in its own affairs, as underscored by the present breakdown in handling paperwork?

—have some European officials demanded that the United States get its balance of payments in order, which means spending cuts, while suggesting retaliation if the United States cut spending too much?

—just weeks after agreeing in the Kennedy Round of tariff talks that the growth of world trade demands a lowering of barriers, have some nations, the United States included, toyed with the idea of protectionism?

—is everyone in Washington talking about inflation and doing so little to combat it?

There is no easy answer to that last question, but an analogy may be offered. Inflation is like the weather. You can talk and talk about it and never run out of things to say.

In fact, as the storm clouds gather there seems to be all the more to talk about. But nobody does much about it.

Members of Poland's Winter Olympics team may not have garnered any medals at Grenoble, France, but they certainly didn't come home empty-handed — some of them sold their fancy fur coats for a nice usable chunk of Western money.

The coats were sold for $200 per copy. Those Poles may not have been so hot as amateur athletes but they certainly look like real professional salesmen!

The fur coat incident has made artist Dick Patten wonder out loud if a future Olympic event might not be the 100-year haber-dash-ery.

Some astronomers, we read, now refer to possible dwellers in outer space as "LGM"—meaning "Little Green Men." At least that's a more comforting term than that used by addicts of science fiction who have been referring to "BEMs"—"Bug-Eyes Monsters."

An eastern co-ed led her team to victory in an intercollegiate pancake eating contest by downing 107 of the flapjacks. Got to give the young lady credit — she's a true champion.

TV Play Writing

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The state of television playwrighting is not as bad as it seems, says Barbara Schultz, talent scout for the medium's sole remaining outlet for dramatic plays.

Many critics have lamented the decline of what was once a thriving art form: the teleplay. The golden days of Studio One and Playhouse 90 are long gone, live television drama having been drowned in a celluloid sea. Only CBS Playhouse remains, and it is a pale replica of the onetime glories of television drama, at least in volume. The CBS venture into meaningful plays produced only one show last season, and four in 1967-68. The latest of these is "Secrets," by Tad Mosel, which will appear on CBS May 15.

Barbara Schultz, executive producer and story editor of CBS Playhouse, was in Hollywood from her New York base to oversee taping of "Secrets" with stars Barry Nelson, Barbara Bel Geddes, Arthur Hill and Eileen Heckart.

Miss Schultz took time out from rehearsals to comment on the state of television playwrighting, circa 1968.

"We're getting good response, both from writers who worked in that 'golden age' of television drama and from new dramatists who see in TV the chance to do different things," she said. "Take Tad Mosel, who wrote our present show. He has written 'Up and Down Staircase' and other films, yet he enjoys returning to television, provided he can do something original."

"The same is true of other successful dramatists. They can earn much more money by writing plays or films—our top pay is $25,000 per script. But in writing for films especially, there is little field for originals; most of their work is in adaptations. TV gives them a chance to deal with contemporary subjects in their own way."

Farther than individual "white racists," the city riots were aimed at "local symbols of white American society, authority and property in Negro neighborhoods," it said.

Humphrey's attention to individual extremists in effect confirms the commission's conclusion that "white Americans have never fully understood" the deep implications of white society's role in creating, maintaining and condoning the racial ghetto.

Which Way for Demos?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

From time to time in the history of the republic a great political party has been broken up only to reform again under another name. But, curiously, the disappearing act has always been staged by the more conservative of the two dominant parties of any given age. The Federalist Party vanished and re-emerged as the Whig Party.

The Whigs, in turn, died before being reborn as Republicans. During the long Rooseveltian period, and for a few months after Lyndon Johnson's tremendous victory over Barry Goldwater, there were surmises that the Republicans might go the way of the Whigs. Only the Democratic Party seemed eternal; in tracing its lineage back to Thomas Jefferson, it emphasized its origins in the differences of opinion that wracked George Washington's first government.

In 1968, however, it is the more liberal — or radical, if you will — of our two big parties that could be headed for a disastrous split and possible dissolution. Eugene McCarthy and Bobby Kennedy threaten to be the precipitating agents. In breaking with an incumbent President they have let the genie out of the bottle. The gentlemanly McCarthy may have been entirely sincere when, at the time of his original announcement, he indicated that he would support the winning ticket if he failed to put his own candidacy over. But his followers are not devoted "party" people; indeed, his crusade has been spearheaded by the young who, up to the very day on which he announced his availability, pride themselves as having passed beyond the normal give-and-take of the political process. They won't dutifully support a Johnson — Humphrey ticket if that is what is presented at Chicago this summer.

As for Bobby Kennedy, how can he go back if LBJ is the eventual winner in the party struggle? In tacitly threatening to take a walk, or even to support a liberal Republican, he has uttered fateful words. His own pride, choked down during three years of lip-service to the Johnson party apparatus, has been released into the action of making a drive to displace the current Democratic hierarchy.

Pride may go before a fall, but pride, in a person of the Bobby Kennedy temperament, can hardly be choked back into restraining harness for a second time.

No, the fountains of the deep have been broken up inside the Democratic Party. It remains to be seen how the Republicans will react to this good fortune.

Without getting personal, at least just yet, the Republicans ought to ponder the meaning of the fact that it is the more radical party that is fissuring this time. When the Federalists and the Whigs committed hari-kiri, the great vital center of the nation was in the movement away from conservatism as interpreted as special privilege. But in 1968 the vital center is moving back to an emphasis on traditional values, whether you call them conservative or moderately liberal, or libertarian.

The researches of Stanton Evans, the Indianapolis editor, into political demography prove this point conclusively. Instead of disappearing after the Goldwater disaster, the vital center of the Republican Party has, even in the midst of the talk about pragmatism, tended to elect more conservative figures. Of the twenty-six Republican governors, at least thirteen are more or less on the conservative side, which is one reason why the governors have never been able to function as a unit in lining up behind a Presidential candidate. The big Reagan victory in California was achieved by catering to young married people with a real belief in the "creative federalism" that would leave governing power in the hands of the states. Republican strength has been growing faster in the South and in the West, and this is doubly significant because the population trends in this country have been transforming states such as Florida, Texas, and California into behemoths to compete with New York and Pennsylvania.

George Romney's candidacy collapsed because it was not mainstream Republicanism. It is too early to say that the Nelson Rockefeller candidacy will go the way of Romney's, for Rocky has yet to say what he thinks. It is what he chooses to say in Oregon, rather than the votes he can pile up in a distinctly non-typical western state, that will tell the Rockefeller story in the "public opinion" polls, and in the backrooms at the Miami Beach convention.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't only the weather that is perplexing this spring, although it is difficult to imagine a more spiteful mockery than a foot of snow on the South's new crops and warm rains on the northern ski slopes.

In the financial world there are many situations that just don't add up or that seem upside down or reversed or inexplicable or confusing. There are answers; but more might be learned from pondering the questions instead.

Why—are people storing more than 7 per cent of their take-home pay in the bank when inflation is eating away at it like moths in a clothes closet? And, incidentally, who are these people? Your neighbors?

—does the Johnson administration fall time after time to come up with correct budget estimates for spending in Vietnam?

—is the entire world, East and West, upset or concerned with the availability of a yellow metal dug from the ground that nobody intends to do anything with but rebury in a vault or in the ground?

—after ignoring food manufacturing and retailing stocks for so long, are so many analysts now reversing themselves and recommending selective purchases, even though the fundamentals don't seem to have changed a lot?

—has Britain, in the midst of an austerity program to encourage an inflow of investments, also decided on a show of confidence by lowering the bank rate to 7.5 per cent from 8 per cent, thus making British investments less attractive?

—did American monetary managers apparently make a firm promise at the recent conference of world bankers in Washington to take action against the imbalance of foreign payments when they have had so little control over the situation in the past?

—if the growth of insurance companies, mutual funds and pension funds is creating such an enormous demand for stocks —some analysts even speak of a potential shortage—aren't the prices of stocks stronger than they are?

—did American automakers, who supposedly have their ears attuned to consumer wants, permit foreign compact cars to take such a large portion of the U.S. car market without offering competition?

—with President Johnson keeping consumer interests constantly in mind—even appointing the government's first consumer counsel, Merle M. McCurdy—are consumers described as fretful and critical?

—did Wall Street, whose analysts always look for growth prospects in other businesses, fail to recognize or plan for the great growth in its own affairs, as underscored by the present breakdown in handling paperwork?

—have some European officials demanded that the United States get its balance of payments in order, which means spending cuts, while suggesting retaliation if the United States cut spending too much?

—just weeks after agreeing in the Kennedy Round of tariff talks that the growth of world trade demands a lowering of barriers, have some nations, the United States included, toyed with the idea of protectionism? —is everyone in Washington talking about inflation and doing so little to combat it?

There is no easy answer to that last question, but an analogy may be offered. Inflation is like the weather. You can talk and talk about it and never run out of things to say.

In fact, as the storm clouds gather there seems to be all the more to talk about. But nobody does much about it.

Members of Poland's Winter Olympics team may not have garnered any medals at Grenoble, France, but they certainly didn't come home empty-handed—some of them sold their fancy fur coats for a nice usable chunk of Western money.

The coats were sold for $200 per copy. Those Poles may not have been so hot as amateur athletes but they certainly look like real professional salesmen!

The fur coat incident has made artist Dick Patten wonder out loud if a future Olympic event might not be the 100-year haber-dash-ery.

Some astronomers, we read, now refer to possible dwellers in outer space as "LGM"—meaning "Little Green Men." At least that's a more comforting term than that used by addicts of science fiction who have been referring to "BEMs"—"Bug-Eyes Monsters."

An eastern co-ed led her team to victory in an intercollegiate pancake eating contest by downing 107 of the flapjacks. Got to give the young lady credit—she's a true champion.

A grizzly bear can outrun a horse—nature item. Very interesting, but where could you get a jockey willing to ride one of 'em?

A baseball holdout who stubbornly stays at home, far from the balmy climate of Florida or Arizona training camp is obviously much more interested in the sun than he is the sun.

TV Play Writing

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The state of television playwrighting is not as bad as it seems, says Barbara Schultz, talent scout for the medium's sole remaining outlet for dramatic plays.

Many critics have lamented the decline of what was once a thriving art form: the teleplay. The golden days of Studio One and Playhouse 90 are long gone, live television drama having been drowned in a celluloid sea.

Only CBS Playhouse remains, and it is a pale replica of the onetime glories of television drama, at least in volume. The CBS venture into meaningful plays produced only one show last season, and four in 1967-68. The latest of these is "Secrets," by Tad Mosel, which will appear on CBS May 15.

Barbara Schultz, executive producer and story editor of CBS Playhouse, was in Hollywood from her New York base to oversee taping of "Secrets" with stars Barry Nelson, Barbara Bel Geddes, Arthur Hill and Eileen Heckart.

Miss Schultz took time out from rehearsals to comment on the state of television playwrighting, circa 1968.

"We're getting good response, both from writers who worked in that 'golden age' of television drama and from new dramatists who see in TV the chance to do different things," she said.

"Take Tad Mosel, who wrote our present show. He has written 'Up and Down Staircase' and other films, yet he enjoys returning to television, provided he can do something original.

"The same is true of other successful dramatists. They can earn much more money by writing plays or films—our top pay is $25,000 per script. But in writing for films especially, there's little field for originals; most of their work is in adaptations. TV gives them a chance to deal with contemporary subjects in their own way.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Trust, Confidence Make a Marriage

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years and have two adorable babies. Right now he is away in the army. He's been gone five months and this is the first time we have ever been separated.

So far I have received 56 letters from him and in each one he tells me how much he loves me, and misses me. And he never fails to say that he is being TRUE to me.

I believe him, Abby, but when I tell this to the other wives they laugh at me and say that all men are alike and when they aren't with the one they love, they love the one they're with. This hurts me very much.

I would like your honest opinion, Abby. Are all men alike?

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: No. All men are no more alike than all women are. You have proof of that. The "other wives" don't think the same as you, and obviously their husbands haven't inspired the confidence and trust that yours has. But, soft peddle your good luck, dear. Some people don't like to hear about it.

DEAR ABBY: My son Rick is not yet 19. A year ago Rick wouldn't even look at a girl. Last August he started seeing a 17-year-old girl day and night. At Christmastime he gave her a small diamond, but he said they weren't going to get married for "a long time yet"—which was a relief to me because I thought they were both too young.

Well, like a bolt out of the blue, Rick decides he wants to get married now! He asked me to sign for him and I refused. He doesn't have a steady job. Besides, he's got the army breathing down his neck. Now Rick and I aren't speaking. I don't like being on the outs with my own son, Abby. We've always had such a good relationship. What do you advise me to do?

UPSET MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I advise you to start talking to Rick, and encourage him to talk to you. There may be a very good reason why Rick wants to marry this girl in such a hurry.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please set me straight on a problem that has me worried.

Could calling a little five-year-old boy "Mary" (just to tease him) leave any lasting emotional scars in later years? I'm afraid it might.

My husband calls our little boy "Mary" when he wants to shame him into acting more like a "little man." This hurts the boy so much he goes to his room and cries.

My husband tells me that I have no "sense of humor," but I can't see anything funny about this kind of teasing, can you?

MRS. B.
DEAR MRS. B.: No. Your husband's sense of humor is out of joint. Tell him to think of a more humane way to make a "little man" of his son.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CURIOUS": While a deficiency of physical ardor is no fair measure of a husband's true love, devotion or fidelity, neither is excessive physical ardor proof of it. And that goes double for wives.

Christmas, Anyone?

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — Christmas decorations will be in the minds of voters in the May 28 primary in this southeastern Oregon community. They'll be asked to decide whether they want to finance decorations for the downtown area with a five-year levy costing $2,000 annually.

Probers Certain Army Gas Behind Death of Utah Sheep

SKULL VALLEY, Utah (AP)

— An investigation to determine what killed some 6,400 sheep in this desolate, semiarid western Utah valley continued today as ranchers moved into the pastures to shoot other suffering sheep.

In the past 10 days sheep began dying by the thousands and several qualified veterinarians have linked their deaths to nerve gas testing at the Army's Dugway Proving Ground adjacent to the rangeland.

Dr. Mar Fawcett, one of two veterinarians called to the

Hatch Ranch—which has sustained more than 90 per cent of the loss—said, "I have no doubts at all that organic phosphate poisoning from nerve gas testing killed the sheep."

He said he based this on lab tests at Utah State University and on private study.

It was several days after the sheep began dying that Army officials withdrew their original denial and said "routine nerve gas" spray had been tested at Dugway March 13.

Fawcett said, "I'm sure if we had known about the testing and had an antidote, many of the sheep could have been saved."

Had the Army reported the tests on March 17 when they were informed of the deaths, Fawcett said many of the sheep could have been given the Army nerve gas antidote atropine.

Nominee for HEW Post Raps 'White Racism' Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilbur J. Cohen, nominated by President Johnson to be secretary of health, education and welfare, says the White House riot commission's report overemphasizes "white racism."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a similar comment about the report. But the head of an administration antipoverty program contended racism exists in and has been encouraged by the white churches of America.

Cohen told a news conference Monday: "I've thought a good deal about that term 'white racism'. It bothers me a good deal, because I think you could also say there is black racism and brown racism and red racism."

He said he doubts that the commission's use of the term "white racism" is helpful.

The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders said in its report earlier this month that "white racism" was a basic factor in the riots that have torn the nation's big cities in recent summers.

Cohen said, "I wish some of the energy that has gone into rioting" had gone into efforts by the rioters for self improvement.

William H. Crook, executive director of the Volunteers in Service to America—VISTA—told a Southern Baptist Convention group today the churches must react to the riot commission report by rooting out bigotry and racism in the churches themselves.

'Letters from Africa' Is Program for Monday Club

Letters from Africa gave the members of Monday Club an intimate view of two of the new African nations at its recent meeting.

The letters were those received by Mrs. Joseph Adkins and Mrs. H. N. Stevenson Sr.

Using parts of letters written by her daughter, Anne, who spent a year teaching in the secondary school of the African-American Institute in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Mrs. Adkins presented a description of one of East Africa's newest nations. Through the unification of Tanganyika and the island of Zanzibar, Tanzania became a nation in 1964. Mrs. Adkins traced briefly the period of colonization which brought to Tanganyika first German and later British influences. These were marked by both advantages and disadvantages to the heterogeneous peoples of the area.

Mrs. Adkins emphasized the work of the president of Tanzania, Julius Nyerere, whose program for the development of his country is very ambitious. His plans are quite Utopian and altogether unique in its foreign policy. It is the country whose successes and failures are being most carefully followed by the other countries of Africa.

Mrs. Stevenson's "Dear Mom and Dad" letters came from the Rev. Frank Beaumont Stevenson who assumed his duties in Sept., 1966, as a missionary in Zambia, Africa. He is under appointment of the overseas department of the Episcopal Church.

Zambia is the former British Colony of Northern Rhodesia, which achieved its independence in Oct. of 1964. The government is native ruled and is fairly stable. Dr. Kenneth David Kaunda is the first president. In his forty-four years he has also worked for his country

AAUW Schedules Election of Officers

Election of officers will be held during the Tuesday meeting of the American Assn. of University Women. The meeting will begin 8 p. m. in the social rooms of the First Presbyterian Church.

President Kaunda's hope is that the African will be able to take the best of the culture of more advanced countries and resist the worst. One thing the missionaries have learned and are practicing is they no longer give away anything to the people which they can get for themselves. "Giving" has done the church more harm in the last century than anything else. Money can be used as a loan to a group as working capital, such as seeds for a garden or flour for a bake sale. Sometimes they pay the bus fare to camp for a child if he is very poor, though he is asked to pay something, even though it may be only a few pennies. In this manner missionaries are hoping to help Christians to keep their pride.

Dress Rehearsal Arrives For 'High Fever Follies'

THE LINE-UP — These eight women make up the "show-girl" cast for the "High Fever Follies." Along with the rest of the cast, these women have worked diligently to polish their act so this year's Follies will be the best ever. To avoid disappointment, people are urged to buy their tickets now for the Thursday, Friday or Saturday performances at Circleville High School.

As rehearsals wind-up this Wednesday night in a final dress rehearsal, all of the acts are being polished to make ready for the big opening night performance on Thursday of "High Fever Follies."

After almost two weeks of practice, just about all of the cast have disposed of their well-used favorite preparations to relieve aching muscles. All the aches and groans have disappeared and precision choreography has emerged.

'Letters from Africa' Is Program for Monday Club

Letters from Africa gave the members of Monday Club an intimate view of two of the new African nations at its recent meeting.

The letters were those received by Mrs. Joseph Adkins and Mrs. H. N. Stevenson Sr.

Using parts of letters written by her daughter, Anne, who spent a year teaching in the secondary school of the African-American Institute in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Mrs. Adkins presented a description of one of East Africa's newest nations. Through the unification of Tanganyika and the island of Zanzibar, Tanzania became a nation in 1964. Mrs. Adkins traced briefly the period of colonization which brought to Tanganyika first German and later British influences. These were marked by both advantages and disadvantages to the heterogeneous peoples of the area.

Mrs. Adkins emphasized the work of the president of Tanzania, Julius Nyerere, whose program for the development of his country is very ambitious. His plans are quite Utopian and altogether unique in its foreign policy. It is the country whose successes and failures are being most carefully followed by the other countries of Africa.

Mrs. Stevenson's "Dear Mom and Dad" letters came from the Rev. Frank Beaumont Stevenson who assumed his duties in Sept., 1966, as a missionary in Zambia, Africa. He is under appointment of the overseas department of the Episcopal Church.

Zambia is the former British Colony of Northern Rhodesia, which achieved its independence in Oct. of 1964. The government is native ruled and is fairly stable. Dr. Kenneth David Kaunda is the first president. In his forty-four years he has also worked for his country as a school teacher, political organizer and a government minister.

Behind Zambia's political struggle stand the everyday people with every day problems. Africa has been pitched head-long into the modern world. It hardly knows what to make of its new surroundings. The tribal barriers are breaking down. The big towns are a confusion of many different tribes from areas thousands of miles apart. Mostly half-educated or less, but desperately keen to learn, the people at first absorb new influences without question. They are particularly susceptible to the "Hollywood Myths."

Mrs. Stevenson read parts of many letters which they have received from their son, Beau. Since he has been in Zambia he has traveled over 13,000 miles covering his various assignments. His experiences include teaching course at St. John's Seminary in Lusaka, here the students are eager to learn, intelligent and very respectful.

In his travels into the bush to give instructions to the catechists (lay workers) at the various mission stations, he has had to take interpreters as the bush people speak only their tribal languages. These missions are very primitive and are reached by driving over dirt roads through many miles of bamboo and trees. They live in mud-daub huts with thatched roofs and their water has to be carried in by the natives. Their main food is called mealie-meal and is made of ground maize. Over this they put cassava, (root stock) ground nuts and relish made from stewing wild leaves. As a luxury there is meat sometimes and dried fish.

The larger towns are modern, yet retain the unmistakable stamp of their beginnings. Many European families who have lived in Zambia most of their lives have luxurious homes with beautiful gardens and swimming pools where they entertain lavishly.

Thus Africa, a country of contrasts although interesting and fascinating is sometimes frightening. In their in-between state Zambians have a feeling of having fallen between tribal and modern customs. Even though they are untrained and ill-equipped to undertake the job of self-rule, they are trying in their inexperienced way to meet the challenge. They are proud of their race and nation and make it clear that they do not want the help of white nations other than their economic aid.

President Kaunda's hope is that the African will be able to take the best of the culture of more advanced countries and resist the worst.

One thing the missionaries have learned and are practicing is they no longer give away anything to the people which they can get for themselves. "Giving" has done the church more harm in the last century than anything else. Money can be used as a loan to a group as working capital, such as seeds for a garden or flour for a bake sale. Sometimes they pay the bus fare to camp for a child if he is very poor, though he is asked to pay something, even though it may be only a few pennies. Mrs. Ken Hostetler and Mrs. Wayne Smith are sleeping a bit more easily these nights since they know that the program, with all of its last minute corrections, additions and deletions, is nearly completed.

For other committee members, however, their jobs are just beginning or are only half-finished. Mrs. Charles Joliffe is in charge of make-up, which not only means the application, but the rounding-up of all the necessary supplies. Mrs. George Robinson is working on the refreshments to be served during intermission. In charge of ticket sales is Mrs. David Gillespie. Tom Shea is working on the scenery required for the twenty-four scenes in this year's Follies production.

At the high school, meanwhile, a group of students are practicing the music under the direction of George Marshall. Mrs. Kenton Osborn is busy getting together enough ushers for the three performances. Mrs. Richard Sutton, in charge of publicity, will be putting away her typewriter on Friday; and the three co-chairmen of the Follies, Mrs. Robert McKelvey, Mrs. Randolph Clark, and Mrs. Roger Bennington will be getting their first peaceful night's rest on Saturday after two months of hard work to make the '68 Follies a success.

In any charity production, such as the Follies, many talents are wholeheartedly given and blended to produce the finished product in hopes that it will provide memorable entertainment for the audience.

TRUMAN SAYS LBJ IS A CINCH—A stroll (left) following a news conference in Key West, Fla., by former President Harry S. Truman was reminiscent of a similar stroll (right) almost 18 years ago to the day in Key West. The president, now 83, said the entrance of Senator Robert F. Kennedy into the Democratic presidential campaign made it easier for President Johnson to win the nomination.

New York Teamster Strike Disrupts Moving Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives weep, men curse, and a presidential hopeful can't get established in his new national headquarters.

But the moving vans remain in their stalls, idled for almost a month by a strike of Teamsters in New York City and on Long Island.

"I'll be so happy to get out of New York," said one tearful woman as she tried vainly to find a way to get her household belongings transferred from Manhattan to Santa Monica, Calif.

A Flushing, Queens, man who has to move to Kansas City told a reporter "I'm damned if I'm going to wait for them to settle the strike... If they won't move me, I'll rent a trailer and do it myself."

The campaign headquarters for Richard M. Nixon, who's seeking the GOP presidential nomination, was to have been moved March 2 from a small Fifth Avenue office to a more spacious one on Park Avenue.

The strike began March 1, and the Nixon team is still on Fifth Avenue, "sitting in each other's laps," as a campaign worker put it.

Many apartment dwellers who've had to move out—but can't get moved into their new dwellings—have had to go into hotels and motels. With the end of the month coming up, they may be joined by others who've given commitments to vacate.

The strikers are members of Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind). Drivers got a base pay of $120.40 a week, while helpers and warehousemen got $112.40. They recently rejected a contract which would have given all of them a $28.20 weekly increase spread over three years.

Until Monday, the union and the six employer associations hadn't been talking to one another since the contract rejection March 18, and state and federal mediation services had stayed out of it.

Snakes Stopped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When a customs inspector opened a package marked "art carvings," he found a sticker which said, "venomous snakes." Karl Stanik, chief herpetologist at Steinhardt Aquarium, said one of the three snakes inside was an Australian tiger snake, "drop for drop, the most venomous snake in the world." Customs officials said Australia forbids export of these snakes except to a zoo so the three snakes were turned over to the aquarium.

Good Weather To Bring Big Ohio Crops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If the weather is good this summer—and it likely will be—Ohio farmers should have some good crops.

Soybean and oat acreage is over last year. Corn and wheat acreage is down. Land allotted to hay is the same as 1967.

Unusually dry winter months may have hurt the wheat crop—young shoots planted in the fall thrive best under a blanket of snow. Alfalfa weevils may cause some hay damage.

Otherwise, rain which is normally heavy in June and July should help production. Meteorologist Howard Kenny of Columbus says no long range weather forecast is available for the summer months.

"The best indicator would be the state's past history," he said. Thirty-years average indicate Ohio should receive 4.16 inches of rain in June and 3.93 inches in July, August and September rain averages below three inches per month.

Dan Tucker, agricultural statistician in charge of the Ohio Crop Reporting Service, says that after two difficult harvest seasons, Ohio farmers hope for a more normal harvest in 1968. He said crops generally were below expectations in the past two years.

"Weather makes the difference," Tucker said.

Ohio's biggest crops are corn, soybeans, wheat, hay and oats.

Agriculture spokesmen say about 3.2 million acres will be committed to corn this summer, a figure 10 per cent below the 1967 crop. Ohio ranks third in corn acreage behind Iowa and Illinois which have 10.5 million acres apiece.

Last year Ohio farmers produced 256 million bushels of corn on 3.2 million acres, but this was down from 262 million bushels grown in 1966.

Acreage committed this year to soybeans totals 2.4 million, up five per cent over 1967. Last year, Ohio used 120,000 acres less and produced 50 million bushels of soybeans. This was down from 60 million bushels produced the previous year.

Wheat acreage allotments are down 20 per cent from 1967 with 1.2 million acres committed this year.

Tucker expects the state to produce 42.1 million bushels of wheat compared to last year's 51.5 million bushels. He blamed the reduction on damage caused by the dry winter now ending.

Depending on the weather and a tiny, tawny red insect named the Alfalfa Weevil, Ohioans look forward to a good 1968 hay harvest. The weevil has been slowly making its way north in recent years.

Since 1965 Alfalfa in Ohio has decreased from 863,000 acres to 669,000 acres, due partly to the weevil. This insect is the most serious pest ever to attack alfalfa in the eastern United States.

In Ohio, in 1966, losses to farmers were estimated at more than $7.3 million, and losses in 1967 were considerably higher. By 1969, heavy infestations are expected to exist in all counties of the state.

Control of the insect is difficult, but in almost all cases, control is less costly than the production of alternate crops.

Once the weevil becomes established in an area, Alfalfa producers must plan to apply control measures each year. Without controls, there will be little or no first cutting and subsequent regrowth will be held back 2 to 4 weeks.

Tucker says merchants report

a thriving business in insecticides.

Ohio expects to plant 1.7 million acres in hay this year, the same as the 1967 allotment. The state produced 3.6 million tons of hay in 1966 and 2.9 million tons in 1967.

Experts look for a 25 per cent increase in acreage committed to oats this year. They expect 680,000 acres planted to oats, compared to 544,000 acres in 1967. Ohio produced 24.4 million bushels in 1967 in contrast to the 32.7 million bushels of oats in 1966.

An official production estimate for the year is to be made public by the crop reporting service soon after April 1.

"Farm productivity should not diminish much," said Ralph D. Copp, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, "although farm prices has been depressed, we look for a normal crop in 1968."

Snakes Stopped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When a customs inspector opened a package marked "art carvings," he found a sticker which said, "venomous snakes." Karl Stanik, chief herpetologist at Steinhardt Aquarium, said one of the three snakes inside was an Australian tiger snake, "drop for drop, the most venomous snake in the world."

Customs officials said Australia forbids export of these snakes except to a zoo so the three snakes were turned over to the aquarium.

Good Weather To Bring Big Ohio Crops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If the weather is good this summer—and it likely will be—Ohio farmers should have some good crops.

Soybean and oat acreage is over last year. Corn and wheat acreage is down. Land allotted to hay is the same as 1967.

Unusually dry winter months may have hurt the wheat crop—youth shoots planted in the fall thrive best under a blanket of snow. Alfalfa weevils may cause some hay damage.

Otherwise, rain which is normally heavy in June and July should help production. Meteorologist Howard Kenny of Columbus says no long range weather forecast is available for the summer months.

"The best indicator would be the state's past history," he said. Thirty-years average indicate Ohio should receive 4.16 inches of rain in June and 3.93 inches in July. August and September rain averages below three inches per month.

Dan Tucker, agricultural statistician in charge of the Ohio Crop Reporting Service, says that after two difficult harvest seasons, Ohio farmers hope for a more normal harvest in 1968. He said crops generally were below expectations in the past two years.

"Weather makes the difference," Tucker said.

Ohio's biggest crops are corn, soybeans, wheat, hay and oats.

Agriculture spokesmen say about 3.2 million acres will be committed to corn this summer, a figure 10 per cent below the 1967 crop. Ohio ranks third in corn acreage behind Iowa and Illinois which have 10.5 million acres apiece.

Last year Ohio farmers produced 256 million bushels of corn on 3.2 million acres, but this was down from 262 million bushels grown in 1966.

Acreage committed this year to soybeans totals 2.4 million, up five per cent over 1967. Last year, Ohio used 120,000 acres less and produced 50 million bushels of soybeans. This was down from 60 million bushels produced the previous year.

Wheat acreage allotments are down 20 per cent from 1967 with 1.2 million acres committed this year.

Tucker expects the state to produce 42.1 million bushels of wheat compared to last year's 51.5 million bushels. He blamed the reduction on damage caused by the dry winter now ending.

Depending on the weather and a tiny, tawny red insect named the Alfalfa Weevil, Ohioans look forward to a good 1968 hay harvest. The weevil has been slowly making its way north in recent years.

Since 1965 Alfalfa in Ohio has decreased from 863,000 acres to 669,000 acres, due partly to the weevil. This insect is the most serious pest ever to attack alfalfa in the eastern United States.

In Ohio, in 1966, losses to farmers were estimated at more than $7.3 million, and losses in 1967 were considerably higher. By 1969, heavy infestations are expected to exist in all counties of the state.

Control of the insect is difficult, but in almost all cases, control is less costly than the production of alternate crops.

Once the weevil becomes established in an area, Alfalfa producers must plan to apply control measures each year. Without controls, there will be little or no first cutting and subsequent regrowth will be held back 2 to 4 weeks.

Tucker says merchants report

a thriving business in insecticides.

Ohio expects to plant 1.7 million acres in hay this year, the same as the 1967 allotment. The state produced 3.6 million tons of hay in 1966 and 2.9 million tons in 1967.

Experts look for a 25 per cent increase in acreage committed to oats this year. They expect 680,000 acres planted to oats, compared to 544,000 acres in 1967. Ohio produced 24.4 million bushels in 1967 in contrast to the 32.7 million bushels of oats in 1966.

An official production estimate for the year is to be made public by the crop reporting service soon after April 1.

"Farm productivity should not diminish much," said Ralph D. Copp, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, "although farm prices has been depressed, we look for a normal crop in 1968."

TRUMAN SAYS LBJ IS A CINCH—A stroll (left) following a news conference in Key West, Fla., by former President Harry S. Truman was reminiscent of a similar stroll (right) almost 18 years ago to the day in Key West. The president, now 83, said the entrance of Senator Robert F. Kennedy into the Democratic presidential campaign made it easier for President Johnson to win the nomination.

New York Teamster Strike Disrupts Moving Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives weep, men curse, and a presidential hopeful can't get established in his new national headquarters.

But the moving vans remain in their stalls, idled for almost a month by a strike of Teamsters in New York City and on Long Island.

"I'll be so happy to get out of New York," said one tearful woman as she tried vainly to find a way to get her household belongings transferred from Manhattan to Santa Monica, Calif.

A Flushing, Queens, man who has to move to Kansas City told a reporter "I'm damned if I'm going to wait for them to settle the strike... If they won't move me, I'll rent a trailer and do it myself."

The campaign headquarters for Richard M. Nixon, who's seeking the GOP presidential nomination, was to have been moved March 2 from a small Fifth Avenue office to a more spacious one on Park Avenue.

The strike began March 1, and the Nixon team is still on Fifth Avenue, "sitting in each other's laps," as a campaign worker put it.

Many apartment dwellers who've had to move out—but can't get moved into their new dwellings—have had to go into hotels and motels. With the end of the month coming up, they may be joined by others who've given commitments to vacate.

The strikers are members of Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind). Drivers got a base pay of $120.40 a week, while helpers and warehousemen got $112.40. They recently rejected a contract which would have given all of them a $28.20 weekly increase spread over three years.

Until Monday, the union and the six employer associations

hadn't been talking to one another since the contract rejection March 18, and state and federal mediation services had stayed out of it.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

There were variable amounts of cloudiness over Ohio Monday night and by daybreak today a few showers had spread into the extreme western parts of the state. Most temperature readings were near 40 degrees at daybreak.

A weak low center over upper Michigan with a trough of low pressure extending southward brought showers and scattered thundershowers across Michigan and Indiana during the night. As this system moves eastward scattered showers and thundershowers will continue to spread across Ohio, especially over the northern half of the state. South and southwest winds will cause rising temperatures, with the mercury expected to climb into the 60s today.

Skies should clear tonight as the low pressure system continues east, and mild sunny weather is in store for Wednesday with more showers likely Wednesday night or Thursday.

NORTHWEST OHIO— Clearing and mild tonight, lows in 40s. Wednesday increasing cloudiness and continued mild.
SOUTHWEST OHIO— Clearing and mild tonight, lows in 40s. Wednesday increasing cloudiness and continued mild.
SOUTHEAST OHIO — Clearing and not as cool tonight, lows in 40s. Wednesday fair and continued mild.
CENTRAL OHIO — Clearing and mild tonight, lows in 40s. Wednesday mostly fair and continued mild.

Engineers Meet

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio Society of Professional Engineers will meet here for its 90th convention Thursday through Saturday. About 1,000 members are expected.

Spock and his codefendants called the Vietnam war illegal in their motions for dismissal of the indictments charging them with conspiracy to counsel young men to evade the draft.

The Justice Department's replies to the questions raised by Spock and the others are the first legal defense of the American position in the war brought before a court.

"United States presence in Vietnam is supported by the full constitutional authority of the President and Congress, and no declaration of war is necessary to authorize this presence," the government said.

The government said that as such, "these contentions are not subject to judicial examinations."

"United States forces are fighting in Vietnam at the request of the government of the Republic of South Vietnam. They are participating in the defense of South Vietnam against armed attack from Communist North Vietnam," the government said.

"South Vietnam has the inherent right of individual or collective self defense, and the United States participation in the defense is consistent with the constitution of the United States, the charter of the United Nations and international law," the government's statement said.

Secret Filipino Plans Unveiled During Probe

MANILA (AP) — A Philippines army recruit testified in the Senate today that a secret special forces camp on the island of Corregidor was designed to train troops to infiltrate the Malaysian state of Sabah.

The testimony posed the threat of further tension between this country and Malaysia, at odds for the past three years over a longstanding claim to Sabah.

The case came to light when newspapers reported that 10 to 60 recruits had been shot down after a mutiny in the camp last week and a congressional inquiry was launched. An army report at the time said three mutinous trainees were killed.

Jibin Arula, a Moslem Filipino, testified that a commanding officer of the camp told him and several other trainees that their mission was to wrest Sabah from Malaysian control.

Unity Among Protestants Outstripping Church Policy

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Church leaders see signs that unity among Protestants is moving ahead of formal church authorization for it.

"While we're talking about it, it's happening," one theologian remarked.

The point was brought out repeatedly as the Consultation on Church Union today sought to map procedures for merging 10 American Protestant denominations with a total of 25.5-million members into a single church.

Declaring that time has run out for long-term, gradual steps in the face of the swift changes, the Rev. Dr. George Johnston, dean of United Theological College, Montreal, told the meeting: "The time for union was the day before yesterday."

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, sounded a similar note, citing the rise of a "radical, practical Christianity" in which various believers spurned church divisions to join in united action.

"We stand at a crucial juncture not in the sense of whether we go on or not, but in the sense of whether we can be creative enough to reflect what is already happening in Christianity today," he said.

A study report presented here also described widespread and increasing interdenominational operations in many matters, at national as well as local levels, despite the continued official separation of the churches.

"The preservation of denominational identity in all situations is no longer taken for granted as normal," the report said.

The consultation's seventh annual meeting opened Monday, involving delegations from the participating denominations as well as observers from about 20 other churches, including Roman Catholicism.

Participants already have agreed on principles of faith and order, allowing wide diversity in worship forms, but now are trying to work out the mechanics of linking up their different organizational structures.

A panel of lawyers, headed by Oliver Schroeder of Cleveland's Western Reserve University, said there are no legal barriers to the project.

He said that in any pioneering venture, deed must precede the technical legalism and added: "What we're doing in outer space is not yet legally defined, but if we had waited until it was we'd still be on the launching pad."

Churches involved in the consultation are Methodist, Episcopal, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian U.S., Disciples, United Church of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal.

He has also served on the planning and zoning commission and is active in the Pickaway County Community Fund Organization.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Students at Grand Junction Central High School collected $532 to aid Ron Hall, paralyzed last November in a scholastic wrestling accident.

There will be ample time for questions and discussions during the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Gilligan Gives Viet Views

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for nomination to the U.S. Senate, says he favors a halt to the bombing in North Vietnam and a "graduated de-escalation of offensive military operations."

"To achieve a negotiated settlement which has any chance of lasting more than a few months, we must arrive at an agreement which will have the endorsement and support of the major nations of the world and of a substantial number of the small members of the community of nations," Gilligan said Saturday at a new conference called to explain his stand on Vietnam.

"It seems clear that no such agreement can be reached without our first stopping the bombing of the north," he said.

Chevelle's new style, power and road stance aren't the only reasons it's the most popular mid-size car.

Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe (foreground) and Malibu Sport Coupe.

One more reason: Its prices start a full $100 lower than any competitive models.

Why is Chevelle so popular? It's a quick-size car, yet it's got big-car ride. That's because its wide stance chassis has a full coil spring at each wheel.

Chevelle offers a choice of wheelbases, too; 112 inches for coupes and convertibles and four inches more for sedans and wagons.

Chevelle is popular because it performs. In the recent NASCAR sanctioned Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials, a Chevelle SS 396 won the Sports Intermediate Class, placing first in both economy and braking.

In the Intermediate 6-Cylinder Class, a Chevelle 300 also outperformed all the others, scoring the highest number of total points in the economy, acceleration and braking tests.

Popular, too, is Chevelle's price. It starts lower than the competitors', so you can order one equipped the way you want it without bending your budget.

Gilligan Gives Viet Views

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for nomination to the U.S. Senate, says he favors a halt to the bombing in North Vietnam and a "graduated de-escalation of offensive military operations."

"To achieve a negotiated settlement which has any chance of lasting more than a few months, we must arrive at an agreement which will have the endorsement and support of the major nations of the world and of a substantial number of the small members of the community of nations," Gilligan said Saturday at a new conference called to explain his stand on Vietnam.

"It seems clear that no such agreement can be reached without our first stopping the bombing of the north," he said.

Chevelle's new style, power and road stance aren't the only reasons it's the most popular mid-size car.

Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe (foreground) and Malibu Sport Coupe.

One more reason: Its prices start a full $100 lower than any competitive models.

Why is Chevelle so popular? It's a quick-size car, yet it's got big-car ride. That's because its wide stance chassis has a full coil spring at each wheel.

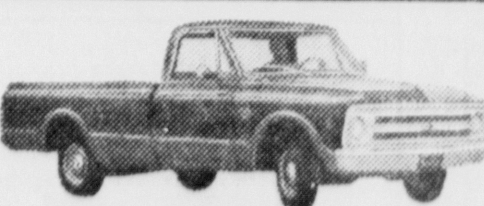

Chevelle offers a choice of wheelbases, too; 112 inches for coupes and convertibles and four inches more for sedans and wagons.

Chevelle is popular because it performs. In the recent NASCAR sanctioned Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials, a Chevelle SS 396 won the Sports Intermediate Class, placing first in both economy and braking.

In the Intermediate 6-Cylinder Class, a Chevelle 300 also outperformed all the others, scoring the highest number of total points in the economy, acceleration and braking tests.

Popular, too, is Chevelle's price. It starts lower than the competitors', so you can order one equipped the way you want it without bending your budget.

Coaches Hit OHSAA Chief Paul Landis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Athletic Association revealed Monday a resolution containing several grievances aimed at the Ohio High School Athletic Association and its commissioner, Paul E. Landis of Columbus.

Paul Walker of Middletown, secretary-treasurer of the coaches' group, said the resolution was adopted at a board of directors meeting here last Thursday.

The resolution charges that Landis has not been aggressive in providing the state association's board of control with recommendations favored by the basketball coaches.

Another grievance alleges that there has been a dereliction of leadership responsibility in not using the coaches' association as a sounding board for establishing policies designed to strengthen the quality of Ohio schoolboy basketball.

The coaches also ask for official recognition for the annual Ohio High School All-Star Basketball Game and a drive toward uniformity in state tournament arrangements, including seedings and financial arrangements of the cage classic.

Landis said the coaches' resolution will be discussed at the April 17 meeting of the state commission.

Pistons Top Celts 126-112

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave DeBusschere's big play — which almost backfired — ignited a Detroit last-ditch drive Monday that gave the Pistons an even break in their National Basketball Association playoff with the Boston Celtics.

DeBusschere, who scored 23 points in the 126-112 Pistons' victory, made his move with 2:46 to play and Detroit leading 114-112.

He stole an errant Boston pass and drove in all alone toward the basket and dunked the ball — and missed.

Teammate Eddie Miles, though, racing down court, snared the rebound and dropped it in for a 116-112 Pistons edge. Detroit outscored the Celtics 8-4 the rest of the way to tie the best-of-7 Eastern Division series at one game apiece.

In Western Division playoff action in Los Angeles, the Lakers took a 2-0 lead with an 111-106 victory over Chicago.

Illinois Keglers Claim 5th Place

CINCINNATI (AP) — Old Orchard Lanes of Urbana, Ill., rolled a 2,976 series Monday night to claim fifth place in the regular team division of the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Old Orchard posted games of 970, 999 and 1,007 as it fell 67 pins short of overtaking Washenaw Lanes, Ann Arbor, Mich., which leads the tournament.

Reds Lose 7-6 Game to Cards

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Pitcher Ted Abernathy was philosophical about how he handled the St. Louis Cardinals.

"All I ask is a little patience," the righthanded submariner said after allowing St. Louis the tying and winning run in his two innings Monday. "This happens every spring."

Abernathy stayed on the field for a little practice of his own after the Reds' 7-6 defeat.

He threw a few from the sidelines mound and called for coach Jim Bragan to hit a few grounders so he could brush up on his fielding.

Earlier, the Reds sent out an SOS for him to put the finishing touches on St. Louis. He allowed Orlando Cepeda a two-run homer in the ninth to tie the score, and in the 10th gave up a single to Floyd Wicker which scored the winning run. The Reds go against the Los Angeles Dodgers this afternoon in Tampa.

Oriole hurlers extended their shutout string to 23 innings Monday before the Chicago White Sox scored once, not enough as Baltimore beat the Sox 2-1 for its fourth straight victory.

Tom Phoebus, following a pair of two-hit shutouts, had Chicago blanked for four innings before Ken Berry homered for a 1-1 tie. But Phoebus, rookie Roger Nelson and Brad Dillman stopped the Sox the rest of the way, and two errors by Chicago pitcher Gary Peters on a sacrifice bunt set up Mark Belanger's winning sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Phoebus, Stu Miller, who pitched one shutout inning Friday, and Eddie Watt are the only pitchers involved in the whitewash string that remain from the 1966 staff that pitched Baltimore to the pennant and world series championship.

During last year's disappointing sixth place finish when sore arms and injuries hampered the hurlers, the Orioles came up with many new faces. They include Nelson, Dillman, Jim Harbin, Gene Brabender, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert, the other weekend shutout pitchers.

At the same time Detroit's pennant hopes suffered a blow when slugging Willie Horton bruised a shoulder tendon in a 5-1 loss to Atlanta as Tito Francona homered and later scored the winning run.

Horton, injured while making a tumbling catch in left field, is expected to be out a week as injuries that kept him out of about 50 games last year continued to plague him.

California lost pitcher Jim McGlothlin in the second inning with a muscle spasm in his back, but Chuck Hinton's bat powered the Angels to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco. Hinton drove in six runs with three hits.

Houston had its eight-game winning streak snapped when Philadelphia broke a 2-2 tie with eight runs in the last three innings for an 8-2 triumph as Grant Jackson and rookie Larry Colton combined on a three-hit-ter.

Rich Nye, the Chicago Cubs' pitching discovery in their 1967 surprise finish, held Cleveland to six hits and no walks in eight innings in a 7-2 victory.

Joe Rudi bounced a hit over shortstop Gene Alley's head in the seventh inning and Oakland beat Pittsburgh 4-3.

Bob Bailey used more power to pull Los Angeles past the New York Yankees 4-1 as he slugged a triple and a homer.

St. Louis and Minnesota won a pair of extra inning games. The Cardinals nudged Cincinnati 7-6 on Floyd Wicker's winning hit in the 10th after the Cardinals tied in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer.

Bob Altman's fourth hit drove in the winning run in the 12th — the Twins and beat Boston 4-3.

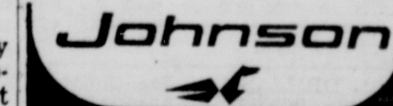

In the only night game, Mike Epstein homered and Jim Miles, Steve Jones and Casey Cox combined for a five-hitter as Washington bottled the New York Mets 2-0.

Siebert Tagged As Tribe Opener

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—When Alvin Dark makes a decision, he sticks to it. That's good news for Sonny Siebert.

The Cleveland Indians' manager pointed to his righthander after a 7-2 loss to the Chicago Cubs Monday and said: "There he is... the guy you'll do our pitching on opening day."

Siebert will go against the Chicago White Sox April 9 in Chicago.

After Monday's loss to the Cubs, Siebert wasn't so sure he would get the assignment. He pitched the Cactus League game and was tagged for eight hits and six runs.

CHS Baseball Schedule Is Revised

Circleville High School baseball coach Chuck Hill is in the process of revising the schedule for the Tiger diamond team.

The revision is forced by the fact that Circleville will not have a home diamond ready for play before mid-April, Hill reported.

All games for at least the first two weeks and possibly longer will be played on the road.

Circleville's diamond at the high school is not completed and the city park board has started tiling the main diamond at Ted Lewis Park where the Tigers have always played their home games.

St. Louis Cards Favored To Cop NL Crown Again

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The pitcher-rich St. Louis Cardinals, with power and speed to spare, have picked up where they left off last October and rate solid favorites to repeat in the National League.

Red Schoendienst came South with a set ball club, his bench bolstered by wise off-season trades. His main problem has been how to cut down his fine pitching staff.

The Cards became the first club in Florida to win 10 exhibition games and probably will become the first to hit the 100 mark when they start playing for keeps.

"We know we have our work cut out for us," said Schoendienst. "That 10½ game lead didn't fool us. You won't find any complacency here. We want to prove we can do it again."

Observers who have watched Lou Brock, Curt Flood, Orlando Cepeda, Roger Maris, Mike Shannon, Tim McCarver, Dal Maxvill and Bob Tolan stinging the ball are wondering what club can provide real competition for El Birdos.

After the first 11 games the club was batting at a .301 clip and every regular was at .300 or better.

Julian Javier, the second baseman, was a holdout for a time and got a late start in the

Dallas Wins Over Houston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It took the police to get Houston Coach Slater Martin off the floor, but the referees weren't impressed.

Near the end of Dallas' 115-97 victory over Houston in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs Monday night, Martin became enmeshed in a shoving battle between Jerry Pettway of the Mavericks and John Beasley of Dallas.

Dallas already was way ahead, but Martin took up the defense of Pettway and in the course of things grabbed referee Andy Hershock and turned him around.

Police were called to eject Martin, but no foul was called either on Martin's action or the shoving incident that started it.

In the Eastern Division playoffs of the ABA Monday, Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 semifinal series, beating Indiana 146-127.

OSU Cage Team Welcomed Home
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's Cinderella Buckeyes received a rousing welcome home Monday night from 4,500 fans in a loud celebration that shook the rafters of St. John Arena.

The fans, including Gov. James A. Rhodes and former Sen. John W. Bricker, a university trustee, showered their admiration on the Buckeyes for winning third place in the NCAA basketball tournament at Los Angeles Saturday.

Some 600 persons met the Bucks at Port Columbus Airport when their plane landed at 6:30 p.m.

Olympic Fund Shortage Probed

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has asked the Dallas, Tex., district attorney to look into the disappearance of some $72,000 collected for the Olympic fund. The committee has denied, however, that a scandal of nationwide proportions is involved.

In Dallas, it was reported that the grand jury heard five charges of embezzlement growing out of local handling of funds.

Pensacola Open Won by Archer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lanky George Archer says he would like to cut down on his golfing trips. But he admits he hates to stay home and miss out on all that money offered on the pro tour.

"I should take a week off after every four or five tournaments," the new champion of the Pensacola Open said after his closing 63 gave him a $16,000 payoff Monday. "But when I sit around home for a couple of weeks I get to thinking about the money I'm not making."

Archer almost passed up the Pensacola tournament, but his wife, Donna, talked him into playing.

"I had a premonition that he might win," said Mrs. Archer. "Besides, we had flown to Florida and I didn't want us to fly back after just one tournament."

Archer almost dropped out in the first round when he became sick to his stomach while playing, but he shot a 66 and decided to keep going. He added rounds of 68 and 69 before his closing burst gave him the title with a 72-hole total of 268, 20 strokes under par and the lowest total on the tour this year.

The 6-foot-6 cowboy from Gilroy, Calif., won the championship with a blazing finish which he needed to edge veteran Dave Marr and young Tony Jacklin of Britain by a shot.

Archer, who trailed both of the other contenders most of the round, shot in front with a closing string of birdies. He sank birdie putts of five, eight and five feet on the last three holes.

Marr finished with a 65 to tie Jacklin, who turned in a 68. They won $7,800 each for their 289 totals. Jacklin, making his best showing ever, reportedly is the first English golfer to finish as high as second on the American tour.

Toledo Studies Gun Control Bill

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A gun control law was introduced in Toledo City Council Monday, aimed at stopping Michigan residents from purchasing firearms here.

If approved, it will be one of the stiffest such laws in Ohio. Council sent the proposal to its legislative committee for study.

A spokesman said many Michigan residents, mostly from Detroit, have streamed into Toledo to buy guns and then do not register them in their hometowns.

Testimony following the Detroit riots last summer showed that hundreds of guns confiscated by Detroit police had been purchased in Toledo.

Unidentified Better Wins $21,012

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) — An unidentified better won $21,012 Monday night for successfully picking the twin double at Charles Town Race Course.

The 7-6-10-2 combination was completed in the eighth race when Ragalu came home a $19 winner.

Chrissy had a $8.60 payoff in the fifth, Rollin Jean an $18.60 return in the sixth and Rosy Tune, $40.40, in the seventh race.

Julian Javier, the second baseman, was a holdout for a time and got a late start in the exhibition schedule due to a slight injury. The first time the complete World Series line-up was in action was March 22. They proceeded to shut out Pittsburgh, regarded as a top challenger.

Cepeda has been hitting home runs. Brock has been slugging and stealing bases. Bob Gibson, the ace of the staff, allowed only one run in his first 11 innings.

Due to the patchwork schedule of early season, Schoendienst probably will use only four starters in the early games. They are Gibson, Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes.

Ray Washburn and Larry Jaster are ready to take a turn. Mike Torrez and Hal Gibson, two graduates from the Tulsa farm have looked the best of the new boys. Wayne Granger, another Tulsa product, also pitched well.

Housecleaning Is . . .

Something To Think About

By JEAN CRIST

Females, come out of your winter hibernation. Spring is here and it's time to wash the walls of the cave and beat the bearskin!

Spring housecleaning involves some hazards for those less hardy than the women - folk, namely the men and children. So, in their behalf, I submit the following rules as a guide for survival for the next 2-4 weeks. The time involved depends on how fast your particular housekeeper works.

1. Stay away from home as much as possible and when at home stay out of the way of "the monster with the mop".

2. Obey all instructions implicitly no matter how stupid they sound and don't antagonize the instructor.

3. Be prepared for short rations or occasionally none at all.

4. Realize that it is similar to paying income tax and going to school; there are many other unwilling participants suffering along with you.

5. Husbands should check to see which furniture has been moved today. Occasionally an unsuspecting husband will come in late and not wanting to disturb his wife by turning on the light, head for the bed in the dark, only to find himself sitting on the floor.

6. Children should check the trash barrels in the garage daily because it's just possible they will find some of their most prized possessions there. Mother thought it was junk, but she has no appreciation of the value that some children can place on things like very dirty, sometimes dis-membered stuffed animals and box after box of an assortment of "things".

7. Lastly, if you really want to get in good with the management, make remarks such as, "You must have really worked hard today. Honey, the living room looks great!", or, "Mom, is there anything I can do to help you?"

As for the women, try to understand that all this work seems entirely unnecessary as far as your family is concerned and they don't see why you have to turn the house upside down and mess up their schedule. So don't be too hard on them.

It's difficult to put into words, but there is a tremendous satisfaction for some women, to look at this big job involving a lot of hard, monotonous, usually unappreciated work and see it through. She washes, cleans, polishes, re-arranges, sorts clothing and toys, gets rid of every cobweb in each little nook and cranny. When she is finished, the house sparkles from top to bottom.

Now you are observing, rather cynically, "So what, doesn't take brains to houseclean, I can't see where she has accomplished so much."

First of all, she has the satisfaction of knowing she has finished a hard job that needed doing. This is very important, for it follows that if you do enough hard jobs because they need doing whether you particularly like all aspects of the job or not, if you don't watch out you will end up healthy, wealthy, and wise.

Admittedly, you don't have to be an intellectual giant to care for a home properly, but you have to work hard, organize, be somewhat artistic, and have on hand such attributes as patience, perseverance and a cheerful attitude that will get you over the humps of monotony that occur in house-keeping, just as they do in all other jobs.

But most important, the winter doldrums have been swept away along with the cobwebs and she has made clear to all she has followed the pattern of nature, to which she is so closely attuned, and set the stage for the bursting forth of the beauty of spring in her home.

School Essay A Preview Of Murder

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Police said Monday a 16-year-old High Point high school youth wrote an essay detailing how he planned to commit murder and then shot another 16-year-old with whom he had quarreled.

Charged with the murder of David Lee Walker was Gerald Locklear, a Lumbie Indian.

Officers said witnesses told them Locklear approached Walker as he left the school cafeteria and said: "Let's go talk." Walker began running a few minutes later, witnesses said.

Detective Sgt. Ralph Johnson said several students watched as Locklear emptied a six-shot 38-caliber revolver at Walker, hitting him four times. Johnson said Walker crawled under a fire escape before he died.

Shortly after the shooting Locklear was arrested as he walked along a street near the school. Patrolman Robert Noah, who made the arrest, said Locklear took a holster carrying a gun from around his waist, draped it over his shoulder and raised his hands.

Police said after an argument some two weeks ago, Locklear wrote an essay detailing the killing. Contents of the essay were not released.

Ohio Vote May Be Low

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown does not anticipate a record turn out of voters for the May 7 primary, even though it is a presidential election year.

Rocky Blasts Patman Slam At Foundation

Calls Tax Abuse Charge False, Political Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas has denied that the Rockwin Fund, a foundation he set up 12 years ago, has engaged in any "tax abuse."

Rockefeller termed a "political maneuver" a report released Monday by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Texas, head of a House Small Business subcommittee which investigated tax-exempt foundations.

Patman's report said Rockefeller acquired several antique automobiles at a bargain through transactions involving the Rockwin Fund.

The report said the Rockwin Fund bought an antique auto collection from singer James Melton in 1960 for $200,000 and later turned the cars over to Rockefeller at a loss of $24,710. Rockefeller issued a statement saying: Annual reports of all transactions have been filed with the Internal Revenue Service, and have never been questioned.

"Congressman Patman has been a tacking me and my family and others for years, and I have no intention of getting into a debate with him about this charge or any other."

The Republican governor added his relationship with the Rockwin Fund is a matter of public record and any further comment should come from his attorney.

Patman proposed in his report that tax-exempt foundations donate their receipts to the government during the Vietnam war, saying the tax exemption granted charitable foundations was not intended to help "rich men . . . indulge in their whims and fancies."

Casino Opens

SEOUL (AP) — Legalized gambling has been introduced to Seoul at the state-run Walker Hill resort with the aid of technical advisers from Las Vegas. It was the second casino opened in Korea. The first began operations last August at the Olympus Hotel in Incheon, 20 miles west of Seoul.

Brown said Monday, reviewing early reports from county election boards.

The 1964 primary turnout was 1,770,467, about one-fourth of Ohio's potential voters.

The deadline for registration is Wednesday. But late reports showed registrations notably slow in such populous counties as Cuyahoga and Montgomery. Mahoning County reported an increase. Many other boards said registration is lagging behind 1964.

The county election boards are remaining open extra hours today and Wednesday.

Viet Strategy OK, Military Leaders Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the retiring Army chief of staff and the new Marine commandant say they oppose any change of U.S. strategy which would leave South Vietnam's countryside to the Viet Cong.

These views have emerged at a time of rising speculation that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's impending removal as commander in Vietnam means a basic switch in military policy is being considered.

Generally the speculation has been that the United States might benefit by abandoning Westmoreland's "search-and-destroy" operations or giving up such remote outposts as Khe Sanh.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, whom Westmoreland will replace as Army chief of staff by July 2, said a U.S. fallback to defense of only select, high-population areas would give the Viet Cong "a license to hunt when and where they choose."

Marine Gen. Leonard F. Chapman said: "I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy. I think that is tantamount to certain defeat."

Johnson commented in the April issue of Army Digest magazine, Chapman in an Associated Press interview.

Accused of being the kidnaper, Hubert Lively (left in right photo), 57, is held by Sheriff's Deputy Bennie F. Cass. Lively said he was a television repairman "direly in need of money." He was arrested near "drop" site of $30,000.

Negro Sheriff A Suicide In Virginia

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) — Virginia's only Negro sheriff, James N. Bradby, was found dead in his car Monday. A medical examiner said it was suicide.

Bradby, 38, was slumped over the steering wheel of the car. A hose was rigged through a taped-shut window vent from the exhaust pipe.

He had started a political career last fall by ousting Charles City Sheriff M. D. Lampkin, a Democrat, who had held the post for 43 years.

Bradby became a symbol to members of his race of their increasing political strength in the South.

"There was no indication of foul play," said Commonwealth Atty. J. Madison Macon Jr., who investigated the death.

He said Bradby was having no trouble with his job as sheriff, which he had held since the first of the year, but had been depressed during the past several days.

"He took on the problems of the people he had to deal with, and worried about them," Macon said. "I don't think he had any enemies."

He said the sheriff was well-liked by both whites and Negroes in Charles City County.

Housecleaning Is . . . Something To Think About

By JEAN CRIST

Females, come out of your winter hibernation. Spring is here and it's time to wash the walls of the cave and beat the bearskin!

Spring housecleaning involves some hazards for those less hardy than the women - folk, namely the men and children. So, in their behalf, I submit the following rules as a guide for survival for the next 2-4 weeks. The time involved depends on how fast your particular housekeeper works.

1. Stay away from home as much as possible and when at home stay out of the way of "the monster with the mop".

2. Obey all instructions implicitly no matter how stupid they sound and don't antagonize the instructor.

3. Be prepared for short rations or occasionally none at all.

4. Realize that it is similar to paying income tax and going to school; there are many other unwilling participants suffering along with you.

5. Husbands should check to see which furniture has been moved today. Occasionally an unsuspecting husband will come in late and not wanting to disturb his wife by turning on the light, head for the bed in the dark, only to find himself sitting on the floor.

6. Children should check the trash barrels in the garage daily because it's just possible they will find some of their most prized possessions there. Mother thought it was junk, but she has no appreciation of the value that some children can place on things like very dirty, sometimes dis-membered stuffed animals and box after box of an assortment of "things".

7. Lastly, if you really want to get in good with the management, make remarks such as, "You must have really worked hard today. Honey, the living room looks great!", or, "Mom, is there anything I can do to help you?"

As for the women, try to understand that all this work seems entirely unnecessary as far as your family is concerned and they don't see why you have to turn the house upside down and mess up their schedule. So don't be too hard on them.

It's difficult to put into words, but there is a tremendous satisfaction for some women, to look at this big job involving a lot of hard, monotonous, usually unappreciated work and see it through.
